

THE VELOCIPEDS.—We saw two of these ingeniously constructed vehicles on Saturday, in process of removal from the store of Messrs Grelly & Fiterre, on Wharf street; they were of French manufacture, with all the latest improvements. One of them, mounted on three wheels, intended for a lady, was quite a graceful affair, and will doubtless become a favorite conveyance with the fair sex, as the effect is charming. The other for gentleman's use, had only two wheels, and was so lightly constructed that very little exertion should send it forward at a tremendous speed. On dit, that in consequence of Dr Carrall's close association with Dr Helmcken, he has been attacked with the latter gentleman's 'penchant for hobbies' and that he has imported one in the shape of a velocipede to carry him back to his admiring constituents at Cariboo. Fancy the doctor seated on a velocipede having a long wa wa with a large circle of interested miners, recounting his legislative triumphs!
