Andrew's Bazaar so Great a Succes that it will be Given Again To-Night. His Worship informed the board that 1,000 copies of the Montreal Herald were to hand, and suggested that the public be allowed to get copies free on The first occasion on which the public were allowed to see the inside of the handsome building which the members of St. Andrew's Presbyterian church have erected at the corner of Douglas and Broughton streets was yesterday. True it was not the oponing of the mas-sive church edifice itself, but it was a genuine house warming, and as such will long be remembered with pleasure by those who attended the annual bazaar.

OTHER MATTERS The mayor drew attention to the fact that the enlargement of the cemetery should be taken up; that water pipes should be laid in a bed of clay; that the paper mill bonus should be attended to, and that a very dangerous building on Wharf streat should be pulled down at At 2 o'clock the school room was thrown open and the public soon com-menced to pour in, to admire the charm-ing arrangements of the room itself as well as the many articles of plain and fancy work offered for sale in tempting profusion

The dais at the upper end of the room, where an excellent concert was given during the evening. was a veritable little conservatory, flow-ers and foliage plants being arranged on all sides to produce an effect at once graceful and unique. The flower stall came next; sweet, fragrant bonquets, both great and little, being provided by the Misses Amy Carmichael, Ethel Me-Micking, Fannie Leech and Gertie Rithet. The luncheon room in the class room at the end came next in or-der to be visited, and here a delicate supper was served at 6 p. m., while "at all hours of the day and night," as the restaurant signs say, tca, coffee and light refreshments were pro-vided. The ladies in charge of the commissary were Mrs. McMicking, Mrs. T. M. Henderson, Mrs. Bland, Mrs. Jack, Mrs. Patterson, and the Misses Murray, Cameron, McLeod, Cathcart, Jamieson, and Mortimer.
